FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS As Its Share Towards Financing the Home Garden Movement.

Norwich Chamber of Com rne Norwich Chamber of Com-erce, in keeping with Governor Mar-is H. Helcomb's proclamation Food upply, the Connecticut Chamber of ommerce and the Connecticut Com-ittee of Food Supply, has undertaken mittee of Food Supply, has undertaken the financing and supervision of Home Gardens in Norwich. Careful estimates have been worked out and the cost of the movement, roughly speaking, calls for a fund of one thousand dollars for properly carrying out the project. Three hundred dollars has been raised by popular subscription and plans are underway whereby the committee expects to raise two hundred dollars more. The city of Norwich has been asked to subscribe five hundred dollars as its share toward financing this most commendable movement. The committee has had this amount placed in the city budget and it will come up for approval at the adjourned city meeting to be held in the Town hall at 5 o'clock Friday evening.

"Every dollar invested in liberty bonds is an investment in democracy," said Gov. Marcus H. Holcomb in a statement made Wednesday urging the people of Connecticut to buy these war bonds and help put this state in the first rank for amount per capita loaned to aid the cause of world freedom through the purchase of liberty bonds. The dergymen of the state are urged by Governor Holcomb to bring the loan to the attention of their congregations from their pulpits.

The governor's statement follows:
"Every loyal person should, as far and in as large amount as is possible, purchase the liberty loan bonds. To do so is a practical expression of loyalty, and every dollar so invested is an investment in democracy. If it appears that Connecticut is the largest investor per capita in these bonds, we shall have reason to be proud of our state.
